Research Chemist Coming to Pacific Campus

Queen Betty Crowned On Gala May Day

Queen Betty I smiled graciously as Cardinal Jack Willcuts placed the crown on her head, making her queen of the 17th bi-ennial May Day celebration on Pacific College campus, in the coronation ceremonies which took place in the afternoon of May 5. An air of gaiety and laughter was apparent among students and visitors during the many activities of the day.

May Breakfast Opens Events

Festivities began bright and early, for the Y. W. C. A. served a waffle, bacon, and eggs breakfast from 6:30 to 9:30 in Wood-Mar Hall. The Queen and her court were honored at the breakfast and ate at a table especially arranged for them. A small profit was made from the proceeds of the breakfast, says Charlotte Macy, general chairman. Others working to make the breakfast a success were Alice Booth, Eleanor Fowler, Florence Hadlock, Irene Sieloff, Imogene Degner.

Ogier Takes Tennis Tournament

Orrin Ogier, sophomore, came out on top in the tennis tournament which drew the interest of many during the morning and through part of the noon hour. Ogier defeated Bernard Landreth in the finals to take the title. Interest in the tournament ran high, with ten students competing.

Demonstrations of archery and opportunities for practice made the east campus a popular spot during the morning. Prof. Rus-

"Brother Goose" Chosen as Senior Class Production

"Brother Goose," a delightful comedy in three acts, was recently chosen by the Senior class as the leading attraction for Class Night, June 5.

The cast was chosen last week by Prof. Lewis Hoskins, who will help coach the production. Members include Doris Manning, Mary Lou Kohler, Betty June Ruden, Irene Sieloff, Jack Willcuts, Margery Wohlgenuth, Arthur Roberts, Alice Booth, Mahlon Macy, and Mary Frances Nordyke.

Class night is an entertainment contribution given free of admission the evening before commencement. This year's program is the first for a number of years to include a three-act play. Other events of the evening will be the reading of the class will and the class prophecy, the awarding of the Wood-Mar award and the presentation of the class gift to the college.

Student Body Buys Back Stage Curtains

An emergency student body meeting was called after chapel Wednesday, May 3. The committee that had been authorized to investigate the prices on curtains for the back stage and wings made a report on prices that were quoted to them. It was found that these necessary curtains could be obtained for $154.00.

S. C. U. Officers to Be Elected This Morning

Officers for P. C.'s new Student Christian Union will be elected today at chapel time. The nominations have been posted for ten days, in accordance with the constitution of the S. C. U.

Don Dodds Will Arrive Near May 15

Don Dodds, research chemist, will arrive at Pacific College about May 15 to set up a research laboratory, according to Pres. Emmett W. Gulley.

Dodds is a graduate of the University of Washington, and has been doing active chemical research work for prominent companies in Seattle for the past three years.

He will begin his work in the present chemistry laboratory on the campus, and may expand later. This laboratory will provide opportunity for students to work with Mr. Dodds.

Dodds' research laboratory is destined to become of great community importance, college officials say.

Dodds is a member of Friends, is married, and the father of a young son. Details of his research work are not available as yet, says Pres. Gulley. The Crescent will carry a complete story of his work in its issue of May 22.

College Recital In Music Week

A feature of National Music Week, being celebrated throughout the United States May 7 to 14, will be the music recital to be held at Wood-Mar hall on the Pacific college campus Tuesday evening, May 9, at 8 o'clock.

The keynote of the 1944 Music Week is to use music to foster unity for the war and the peace to follow, according to Mrs. Frank Colcord, chairman of the local committee.

The program at the college Tuesday night is as follows:

Violin solo, "Traumerel" (Shumann) by Carol Lea Wilcox.

Piano solo, "Erl King," (Schubert-Liszt) by Herschel Thornburg.

"Serenade," from "The Student Prince" (Sigmund Romberg) by Mildred Colcord.

Cornet solo, "The Little Colonel Polka," by Paul Dybedal.

"Mendelssohn's Spring Song," Aldene Gould.

College trio, "Tom Thumb's Drum" (Freeman High), "Wooden Shoes" (Herbert-Marlowe) by Mary Frances Nordyke, Joyce Perisho and Betty Ann Craven.

Piano solo, "Valse in D Major" (Alexander Glazounoff) by Gloria Lundquist. Solo, "Il Bacio" (Arditi) by Caroline Stone.

Trombone solo, "Ave Maria" (Schubert) by Jack Devore.

Solo, "Ninety First Psalm" (James G. MacDermid) by Lloyd S. Cressman.

The public is invited.

May Day Success

Generalissimos Barbara Garrett and Ross Gulley should be grateful to Mother Nature for cooperating so well with their plans for May Day. A nicer day could not even be imagined, although members of the court, May Pole winders, and tennis players show the results of Sol's rays in their bright and shiny countenances.

Back to May Day generalissimos, they should be commended for the job they did in handling such a large affair as P. C.'s bi-ennial May Day. The visitors present and students enjoyed a swell time and join in proclaiming the day a success.

Yet hard words can enter the heart
And lie there as heavy as lead.

Prayer Room Dedication

The dedication of the new prayer room in Wood-Mar Hall last week marks the end of nearly a year's work and planning. The need for a prayer room easily accessible by all students at any time was felt early last fall, and discussion of such a project was taken up in Y. M. and Y. W. cabinet meetings. The persistent efforts of the students elected to turn the discussion into action are now well appreciated by all students who use the room. Help and donations from interested friends and nearby churches played a large part in making the room possible.

The room's being always open, yet closed to any activity save meditation and communion with God, is fitting. It is hoped that through the use of this room students and friends of Pacific College may enjoy a closer fellowship with God. The College as a whole is sure to be benefitted.

Choir Plans to Redecorate College Music Studio

Everett Craven was named chairman, and Thelma Green treasurer, last week, to lead a project undertaken by the choir of Pacific College to raise funds to redecorate the music studio.

Herschel Thornburg, choir director, told the group of his plans to repaint the walls of the room and purchase draperies, and met with an enthusiastic response. Choir members will do the actual work.

It is believed that the redecoration of the studio will boost the music department and provide for a more pleasant atmosphere for music classes and lessons.

Thornburg Draws Chalk Picture for Chapel

Instead of the familiar "House by the Side of a Road" students saw a "House by the Side of a Stream," when Herschel Thornburg, P. C. student and music professor, drew a chalk picture for chapel program April 24. He thought out loud as he made the picture and read the 100th Psalm for devotions. Arthur Roberts led the assembly in "Praise Him, Praise Him!"

The rising moon over the chuckling stream with somber evergreens sheltering a cottage near by kept the interest of P. C. students who welcomed a bit of phantasy as escape from lurking six-weeks exams and term papers.

Pacific College Professors Use New Seminar Technique

Effective use of the seminar technique in teaching is being made by various Pacific college professors this year. The seminar is a method of teaching originating and developed in Germany when that country was the seat of learning and culture. American students who were doing their graduate work in German universities brought the institution to America about the middle of the nineteenth century where it was quickly adopted by leading graduate schools.

Only recently has the seminar been adopted by under-graduate schools to any extent, but their successes seem to guarantee further developments along this line. The seminar method usually calls for small class groups who meet informally with the professor for guidance and general discussion for a relatively long period. Between class meetings research is assigned class members who then report to the group for their consideration at a subsequent meeting.

Among those professors at P. C. who are using this technique in some of their classes are Professor George Moore, who meets his class in pastoral psychology at his home for a supper meeting each week. Prof. Lewis Hoskins employs the same method with his class in ethics. The new "Community" courses taught by Professors Randolph Hutchins and Perry Macy also have made use of seminars. Frequently outside authorities are invited in to these sessions to enliven and enrich the discussion. For instance, Judge Hervey M. Hoskins, of the County Court, spoke to Prof. Macy's "Community Planning" class this week, telling of the work of the county welfare agencies. Of a similar nature, is the night class in the Spanish language being taught this semester by President Gulley.

Campus "Spick and Span" After Clean-up Day

Mother nature treated us well Thursday when she gave us sunshine on Cleanup Day. It was so good for the morale that almost every P. C. member dug out his old clothes and came ready to work with a beam on his face. President Gulley was wearing a Mexican jacket that was new to a lot of our eyes as he aided the seniors on their project of an outdoor fire place. Gervus Carey was so well camouflaged in work clothes and a panama hat that several didn't recognize him from a distance until time to eat lunch. Regular yells came from groaning seniors to their classmates, "You want to graduate?" "Well then, come on and labor on this fireplace instead of standing there enjoying sweet spring."

It was seen by several authentic eyes that Mrs. Hervey Hoskins and Mrs. Alice Roberts were "cutting the rug" all morning. What is this older general coming to? Charlotte and Jerry with Orrin's and Allen's assistance, feel that they've done their good deed of the week by getting the P. C. sign put up (and indeed they have); they even planted two rose bushes along side!

And isn't it swell to get the canyon all fixed up for us—those nettles won't have to be contended with any more, thank goodness. Orrin was accused at lunch of trying to grow shrubs in his hair after he emerged from the thicket.

I'm sure Miss Sutton wasn't up 'till 10:30 the night before (like I was) (bet you were, too); the ambitious way she went after the weeds in the shrubs just outside of the science hall made me sigh at my own lack of ambition.

Bernard was heard to remark, "I'd been working on the tennis court by myself all morning until Betty Anne Roberts came out to help me—and then all of a sudden I had lots of helpers. Hmm she must have something." Hmm, she has!

The senior rose garden got it's going over by Mr. Hutchins and Mr. Lewis, and Mr. McCracken put in his two cents' worth, too—where does that man find time to do so much?

The bunch was really in there plugging and we're proud of every drop of sweat that was shed. That's one day we don't have to shudder when the word "cooperation" was mentioned.

L'Ami at Lithographers

The L'Ami, Pacific College year-book, is now in its final stage of production, editors Geraldine Tharrington and Betty June Ruden said last week.

The book is now in the hands of the lithographers and will be ready for distribution the latter part of May.

Hadlock Tells Trefian Of Nurses' Aide Work

Miss Florence Hadlock spoke on the six weeks she spent in the Minidoka relocation center last summer, after the regular business meeting of the Trefian Literary Society, April 26.

She began by telling the group of her decision to go to Minidoka to be a nurse's aide, and related some of the experiences of the trip to Idaho. She showed the group the pass she had obtained for entering the camp.

Briefly, Miss Hadlock described the camp barracks and contrasted them with the nurse's quarters and the hospital where she stayed. She pointed out by various examples the fact that the Japanese people are naturally courteous and friendly. To further bear out this point, she read excerpts from letters she had received from various ones with whom she had become acquainted. She also recounted various experiences of her work in the surgical ward.

On May 10, Mrs. Roberts, adviser to Trefian, will have charge of the program. She will tell the Society about various flower arrangements.

New Prayer Room Dedicated by Students Last Week

The new prayer room in Wood-Mar Hall, fitted and furnished by students during the past year, was brought to the attention of all in an impressive dedicatory service Tuesday, May 2. Group singing was led by Terrell Repp, with Kathleen Repp at the piano.

Gervas Carey, head of P. C.'s Bible and Theology department, spoke to the group concerning the importance of the individual's devotional life and urged students to make their devotions consist of Bible reading, prayer, with God talking to them as well as their talking to God, meditation, and reading of devotional books.

Evangeline Marx sang "The Lord's Prayer," after which Dr. Carey gave the dedicatory prayer.

In the candle lighting ceremony which followed, Florence Thomas held a white candle as a symbol of the purity of Christ, and the audience sang "Fairest Lord Jesus." Jack Willcuts held a red candle as a symbol of Christ, the Church, and the audience sang "The Church's One Foundation." Geraldine Tharrington held a blue candle, standing for Christian Education, while the audience sang "Open My Eyes That I May See."

A final prayer by Dr. Carey closed the service.

The prayer room has been made possible by the work of several students from P. C.'s Christian Associations the past year. Funds were donated by interested groups and friends and by students, and the work was done by students, and the work was done by students. The room will be open at any time for the use of anyone desiring to have a place for meditation and prayer.

Edith Phipps Leaves for WAC

Edith Phipps, popular sophomore student, was able to complete her second year at Pacific College before leaving for the WAC's on Saturday, May 6. She will go directly to Des Moines, Iowa, having her basing training in the Air Corps, taking about six weeks. Regulations have been lowered now so she hopes that her application for over seas duty will be accepted.

"Gee, it would be swell if I'd run into Janet in North Africa," she said with her characteristic grin. Her sister, Janet, who is a graduate of Pacific College in the class of '41, has been in active duty for a year in the Twelfth Fighter Command and over seas a good part of that time.

Edith has applied for radio control tower work and would like to be a calisthenics instructor if the former is not possible. She has been very active in sports all through her school days, presiding as president of the WAA for the past year.

When asked why she wanted to join the Army, she said, "I feel that I can serve my country in the Armed Forces better than in any other capacity while my country is at war."

Former Students Now in Service Return Home

Lt. Dean Tate, whose thrilling escape after bailing out over Germany on a bombing mission, all of which can't be publicized, is home, in the flesh, after having been carried on the roster in England as missing.

Joe Kycek, army air corps in Arizona, is also home visiting his wife and baby.

Both Tate and Kycek are also Pacific College graduates, Tate in the class of 1942 and Kycek in 1941.

Pvt. Paul Victor Morse, Pacific College class of 1938, will be home on furlough this Saturday, according to a wire received this morning.

Pfc. Veldon J. Diment, now stationed at Amarillo, Texas, in the air corps, arrived in Newberg this morning during his present furlough. He graduated from Pacific College in the class of 1934.

OFFICERS TO BE ELECTED

Joyce Perisho; Treasurer and Finance Committee Chairman, Don Brash, Roger Minthorne; Y. W. C. A. chairman, Imogene Degner, Vera Jones; Y. M. C. A. chairman, Don Bowers, John Crist; Deputation Chairman, Herschel Thornburg, Terrell Repp; Social Chairman, Varley Crist, Margery Cole; Membership and Publicity, Mildred Haworth, Betty Ann Roberts; Program, Donna Heacock, Jerry Tharrington; Faculty Adviser, George Moore.

Sieloff Takes New Job

Robert Sieloff, a P. C. graduate, and his wife, the former Irene Lewis, plan to leave for Monroe, Washington, early in June, where Mr. Sieloff will be the Institutional parole officer for the Washington State Reformatory. He will have charge of making out all parole plans for the prisoners, men from eighteen to thirty-five years old.

Mr. Sieloff also plans to take seminar courses at the University of Washington. This work will be applied on the Ph.D. degree for which he is working.

Queen Betty I Crowned at P. C.'s Gala May Day

sell Lewis, the campus expert, was in charge.

A pot-luck lunch on the lawn in front of Canyon Hall was enjoyed by a good-sized crowd. Thelma Green was in charge of the lunch. Queen Betty Crowned at 2:00

In stately pomp the procession of attendants and green and cardinal made their way to the flower-bedecked bower built on the South Campus for the coronation ceremony at 2:00. Princesses Joyce Perisho, Geraldine Tharrington, Florence Thomas and Irene Sieloff wore flowered taffeta dresses, similar in style, but with different colored backgrounds of white, pink, blue, and yellow. The dresses were simple, with tiny sleeves and full circle skirts. Male attendants Herschel Thornburg, Arthur Roberts, David Thomas, and Mahlon Macy, wore white trousers, dark coats, and white capes. Flower Girl Margaret Fowler and train bearers Linda and Sandra Fowler, were dressed in white, as was crown-bearer Charles Smith.

May Queen Betty was beautiful in the traditional white and rich gold robe.

Faculty and Classes Pay Homage

After the ceremony the faculty and senior class paid homage to the Queen. The faculty presented a tire to her and the seniors sent a "gypsy" fortune teller to predict a rosy future for the queen. A group of gypsies arrived then to entertain the queen with folk games. Evangeline Marx sang, "Slumber on, My Little Gypsy Sweetheart" for the Junior class tribute and a sophomore "gypsy" pickpocketed a fellow classmate and presented a shell necklace to the queen. Terrell Repp played his violin as freshman tribute. The May Pole winders then wound the May Pole and the Queen and her court left the bower to be present at a reception given by Trefian Literary Society on the Canyon Hall lawn. Miss Viola Nixon, president of Trefian, Mrs. Alice Roberts, adviser to Trefian, and the Queen and her court made up the receiving line. Miss Mary Sutton and Mrs. Emmett Gullely poured punch. Gypsy Theme in Evening Program

The evening program featured a one-act play, "Civilized," with Charlotte Macy, Orrin Ogier, Allen Thomas, Terrell Repp, Bernard Landreth, and Everett Craven acting, pictures of former May Days shown by Prof. Lewis Hoskins, a musical program by "gypsy" entertainers, and a skit, "Who Slit Her Throat?" by Paul Thornburg and Charlotte Macy.

Many Attend the Unveiling of Pennington Bust

A remarkable life-like bust of Levi T. Pennington, president-emeritus of Pacific college, was unveiled at Pacific college last Friday evening before a large audience. The sculpturing was the product of the late Professor Oliver L. Barrett of the University of Oregon's School of Architecture and Allied Arts.

The actual unveiling was done by Mrs. Kathryn Barrett, widow of the sculptor. Hervey M. Hoskins, vice-president of the Pacific college board of managers, made the acceptance speech, expressing the appreciation of the college for the gift.

Out of Town Guests

A number of out-of-town guests were present for the occasion, and the chairman of the evening, President Emmett W. Gulley, introduced them as well as the principals of the ceremony. A musical program added to the evening.

Following this program, the audience was invited to a reception in the college library where they met the guests and viewed the bust in its present location. Members of the ladies' auxiliary to Pacific college served Russian tea and cake.

Dinner Honors Principals

Previous to the public ceremonies at the college, President-Emeritus and Mrs. Levi T. Pennington entertained at dinner in their home at 1000 Sheridan street the out-of-town guests and college officials most directly concerned in the gift. The house was beautifully decorated with apple blossoms and other spring flowers, and the guests, in addition of Dr. and Mrs. Pennington and their daughter, Bertha May, were as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis F. Lawrence, of Eugene and Portland. Mr. Lawrence is dean of the school of Architecture and Allied Arts of the University of Oregon, and the originator of the entire project. Mrs. Oliver L. Barrett, of Eugene.

Mrs. W. W. Barrett, of Portland, mother of the sculptor, and Mrs. Charles Barrett, a sister-in-law. Miss Jean Sutherland, of the sculpture department of the University of Oregon, successor of Oliver Barrett, who did the base of the bust.

Frederick Collins, Eugene, who did the casting of the bust. President and Mrs. Emmett W. Gulley, of the college, and Mr. and Mrs. Hervey M. Hoskins. Mr. Hoskins is vice-president of the college board and Mrs. Hoskins of the woman's auxiliary to the college.

Choir in Sacred Concert

Several P. C. students will take part in a sacred concert to be given by the choir of the Friends Church, Sunday evening, May 14. The concert is being planned as a part of national music week observation.

A male quartet from Pacific College made up of Paul Thornburg, Herschel Thornburg, George Bales, and Everett Craven will be featured on the program, and a girl's quartet made up of Joyce Perisho, Betty Ann Craven, Mildred Haworth, and Mary Frances Nordyke will sing.

The college and church music groups have worked together on several special events this spring. The Easter cantata and music for this spring's evangelistic mission used college talent as well as music from other church members.

Quakerettes Take Softball Opener

The Quakerettes made their first softball game of the season a win over Newberg Thursday, May 4, hi-tallying 13-10 behind Macy's decisive pitching.

A big collision with a slight bump on the head sent the catcher, Cole, to the showers, but the team, though unnerved, came back and played to victory.

The second game of the season will be played May 9 at Lafayette High School. The Quakerettes also have a return game scheduled for May 15 with Newberg High School.

The line-up was as follows: catching, Margery Cole; pitching, Charlotte Macy; first base, Betty Ann Roberts; second base, Joyce Perisho; third base, Imogene Degner; Shortstop, Mildred Haworth; Fielders, Jerry Tharrington, Edith Phipps, Betty Ann Craven; Shortstop, Mary Frances Nordyke.

Youth Program Opens Arts and Crafts Course to Students

The class in Arts and Crafts, taught by Herschel Thornburg and Geraldine Tharrington, given as a part of Youth Activity night at the Friends Church each Saturday, is now open to adults, announce Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Cressman, activity directors. The class meets at 7:00. A charge of 25c will be made to cover cost of materials.

The opening of the class to adults came from popular demand. It is one of the most popular of the classes held each Saturday evening.

Youth Activity night was begun this spring to provide for the youth of Newberg a night of fun and activity. Able leaders direct such classes and activities as recreation, cooking, needle-craft, wood-working, health, nature study, camera, chorus, and arts and crafts.

Panel Discusses P. C., Community

A symposium, composed of two faculty members and two students, discussed the subject "Pacific College and Community" in chapel at Pacific College, Tuesday, May 2. Professors Hutchins and Macy, Varley Crist and Jack Willcuts took part in the discussion. Professor Lewis Hoskins was chairman.

Professor Hutchins stressed the tremendous importance and significance the community has in individual and group life today. He defined community as the interplay of ideas bringing about mental and spiritual unity among people.

Professor Macy spoke on the individual personality development in relation to the community. Varley Crist spoke on vocations in regard to community. She said that there are many vocational fields open to people who are interested in bettering the world by working in a small community.

Jack Willcuts, the final speaker, told of practical outlets of community organization in Newberg in the fields of recreation, culture and industry.

After the speeches the discussion was thrown open to cross questioning among speakers and discussion from the audience. The subject of community has been of particular interest at Pacific College this spring with a course in Community theory being taught by Professor Randolph Hutchins, and a course in Community planning being taught by Professor Macy.

Floyd Schmoie, director for the relocation of the Japanese at the center at Minidoka, Idaho, will speak to students on chapel, Wednesday, May 10. He will talk about the Japanese and relocation problems.

Phys. Ed. Department Gives Chapel Program

The Physical Education department, represented by Charlotte Macy and George Bales, was in charge of chapel Wednesday, April 26.

Miss Macy gave a synopsis of the accomplishments of women's physical education department this year and spoke of how physical development, mental development, poise and grace, sportsmanship and cooperation are stressed in the course.

As representative and coach of men's athletic department, George Bales delivered an enthusiastic speech on the importance of physical development and fitness. His talk was climaxed by a short demonstration in weight lifting.
